

Andrew Shtulman, Scienceblind

1. How does understanding human beings (and our brains) as the product of evolution help explain which scientific concepts will be hard to grasp? [Note: the interview touches upon the answer to this question, but only briefly. Do your best to figure it out, and we'll talk about in class on Monday, Nov. 19.]