

Stephen Cave, There's No Such Thing as Free Will

1. Explain Stephen Cave's case for how good consequences could emerge if people think their own actions reflect free will but other people's actions stem from forces beyond their control.