

Jean Twenge, Have Smartphones Destroyed a Generation?

1. How is it possible that smartphones and social media could have made teenagers and young adults (compared to earlier generations) less likely to get pregnant, get into fistfights, or get murdered, but more likely to become anxious or depressed?