

The Economist, Found in Transition

1. How do the differences between gay or lesbian individuals and those who are trans, along with the future life course of people who express gender atypical behavior as children, illustrate the complicated science and politics of gender?