March 8 | 10:00 am | Great Hall & Zoom video conferencing

Dear Epiphany,

tone: bright

As I write this to you the sun shines and the wrens chirp outside my window.
The wind is blowing a bit, as if to push away winter. I love spring — so vibrant and full of life! And yet, as we meet this Spring of 2020, I know that as the coronavirus is becoming a bigger and bigger presence in our everyday lives, with some schools opting to close, and hospitals taking on new patient policies, and the stock market sliding, and every organization we've ever belonged to sending us notices on their COVID-19 precautions — this can produce an pervasive fog of anxiety in the world around us.

value: comfort

I can assure you that we have nothing to fear. Now, when I say that, I say so in the context of the reality of God. We are God's. God loves us. God made us. And God never puts an end to anything that God loves. And so, there is never ever anything to fear... COVID-19 included.

I will be saying more about these anxious times this Sunday, March 8, at 10:00 am, via video conferencing. You can join us in the Great Hall or remotely at this link: <https://zoom.us/j/583555779> (<https://zoom.us/j/583555779>) — I can't wait to speak with you all.

LISTEN TO THE CHOIR

(/worship/music-at-epiphany/)

He answered, You shall love the Lord your God with all your heart, and with all your soul, and with all your strength, and with all your mind; and your neighbor as yourself.

Luke 10:27
